

Deputy Commissioner Gary Worboys APM Regional NSW Field Operations

Deputy Commissioner Worboys was promoted to the position of Deputy Commissioner Regional NSW Field Operations on the 28th May, 2017.

Deputy Commissioner Worboys joined the New South Wales Police Force in 1981. He has extensive experience in operational policing having performed duty at various locations including; Blacktown, Lismore, Walgett & Lightning Ridge. He was promoted to Superintendent in 1999 and has performed the role of Local Area Commander at Goulburn, Monaro, Wollongong and Liverpool Local Area Commands.

Deputy Commissioner Worboys was promoted to Assistant Commissioner, Southern Region in 2013. In this role he developed a clear vision for the Region with his focus of 'Crime, Community and Our People'. As Commander, Southern Region Deputy Commissioner Worboys was the Corporate Sponsor for Victims of Crime, chair of the Uniform Standards Committee and represented the NSWPF on the Royal Humane Society Board and the National Police Memorial Steering Committee.

Deputy Commissioner Worboys recent achievements include:

- NSWPF representative in the Pearls in Policing program 2015-2016.
- NSWPF Field Commander for the Commonwealth Heads of Government Conference in Perth, Western Australia 2011.
- Review of 2016 policy document 'remote or isolated policing guidelines'
- REOCON (Illawarra South Coast / South East / Murray Riverina Regions).

Deputy Commissioner Worboys has received several awards including the Australian Police Medal (APM), National Police Service Medal, National Medal with 2nd Clasp, NSW Police Medal with 4th clasp and the ACT Emergency Medal. Deputy Commissioner Worboys has also attended Australian Institute of Company Directors Program and the Police Executive Leadership Program.

After more than 35 years in the New South Wales Police Force, Deputy Commissioner Worboys still enjoys being a part of everyday operational policing right across the state. He believes that we are all fortunate to work in an organisation that values safety, commitment and work ethic. His passion and enthusiasm for the New South Wales Police Force and its ability to make communities safer and better places continues.

Deputy Commissioner Worboys in his new role as 'regional deputy' will focus on connecting remote, rural and regional NSW to ensure the best possible response to crimes and community problem solving. A large part of those responses he believes will be informed and shaped by the communities themselves.
